THE MOUNTAIN EAGLE

IT SCREAMS! Whitesburg, Letcher County, Kentucky, Thursday, March 17, 1965 Vol. 58, No. 44

Architects employed

The Letcher County Board of Education has employed Perkins and Threadgill, Harlan architects, to draw up detailed plans for a proposed new library-cafeteria building to be built at Whitesburg High School.

The board acted at its March

Parents petition for teacher's return

A Letcher County schoolteacher arrested at a moonshine still last week has been sent back to his classroom after parents of his pupils petitioned for his return.

Supt. of Schools Dave L. Craft said the teacher, Teddy Alvin Cornett, 28, had told him he had nothing to do with the moonshining operation where he was arrested by federal agents but merely had gone with a friend to look at the still.

Cornett's case was continued until June when he appeared before the United States Commissioner at Pineville after being arrested by federal agents last Friday.

Craft said he sent another to Cornett's classroom at Coyle's Branch but parents asked that Cornett be returned. The one-room school has 17 pupils in eight grades.

Craft said he had always found Cornett, who has taught the past five or six years on an emergency certificate a "very fine teacher and very fine boy, very progressive."

ASCS pays out $23,029 to farmers

The federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service paid out $23,029.19 in assistance to 124 Letcher County farmers for completing conservation measures on their farms last year.

Financial assistance is available again this year, generally on a 50 per cent of cost basis. Some families, however, may be eligible for 80 per cent of costs if their income is $3,000 a year or less and if their livelihood is largely dependent on the farm.

The local ASCS office said now is the time to have soil analyzed for fertilizer and limestone, which are required on participating farms.

meeting Friday, after Supt. of Schools Dave L. Craft said he and Asst. Supt. Kendall Boggs had taken a preliminary application for federal funds to finance the project to Frankfort.

Craft said state officials appear to favor the application, which seeks money under Title I of the federal aid to elementary and secondary education act.

The board heard Russell Combs, former janitor at the Whitesburg gym, complain that he had been dismissed wrongfully and voted to re-employ him in the school system. They told Craft to find someone for him to do on the maintenance staff. So far this week he has not begun work.

Combs was dismissed after he refused to allow a state fire marshal to inspect his office in the gymnasium basement. He said he had been ill and "I kind of got sore" because "people kept riding me."

The board voted unanimously to hold future discussions of employees in executive session.

New phone books out

New telephone directories were mailed this week to 3,500 Southern Bell subscribers in Letcher County. This represents an increase of 500 over the last directory mailing.

J. M. Gipe, area manager for the phone company, said that although the new books carry Jenkins directory information, local calling service is not in effect yet between Whitesburg and Neon and Jenkins. He said the service will go into effect later this year, and the directories were prepared with that in mind. Until the new service takes effect, calls from Whitesburg and Neon to Jenkins will continue to be long-distance calls. Calls between Neon and Whitesburg have been free for several years.

Several changes in dialing procedures were listed by Gipe. Whitesburg subscribers who have two or four party service will have new code numbers to use when dialing other parties on their lines. Two-party codes will be 551, instead of 881. Four-party subscribers who have used "88 plus" will now use "55 plus." The telephone business office number also has been changed. It is now 633-9231. Changes will be effective March 21.

Caudill rehired for poverty

Isaac B. "Ike" Caudill of Black-

er County was re-hired this week as director of the war on poverty in Letcher County.

Caudill was re-employed by a secret vote by members of the Letcher County Economic Opportunity Committee Inc., a group of citizens responsible for operation of the poverty program in the county. The vote was 13-9.

By their action, the committee members overrode recommendations of two other committees that Caudill be replaced by a more experienced person who could give firmer leadership to the poverty program.

The action of the county group in rehiring Caudill touched off the resignation of the entire lay membership of a personnel committee which had been appointed to screen and select applicants for the directorship and seven other professional positions within the poverty program.

The chain of events left the other positions unfilled and will mean further delays in the start of the Blackey Community Services Center. It also raised questions as to how and by whom the remaining staff will be selected.

The tangled situation started in November when the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington approved a $202,600 grant to Letcher County to expand the county staff from three to 10 persons, operate a "multi-services community center" at Blackey and establish two child day-care centers.

The county committee signed a contract with OEO in Washington in order to obtain the money. The contract provided for the appointment of a "Professional Personnel Selection Committee" to be composed of the county poverty director, a member of the county committee, a Letcher County citizen to be named by the Council of the Southern Mountains, a Letcher County citizen to be appointed by the governor, and a fifth person, to act as chairman, who would be a professional employment counselor.

The personnel committee was written into the contract by OEO in an effort to insure a capable professional staff for the project.

Subsequently, Varon Campbell, Little Cowan, a vocational agriculture teacher, was selected to represent the county committee. The Rev. Charles S. Sydor Jr., of Haymond was chosen to represent the Council of the Southern Mountains. Tom Gish, editor of The Mountain Eagle, was chosen as the governor's representative. Dr. Daniel Fox, field services director of the Appalachian Volunteers, was selected as the professional employment counselor.

The Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington ruled that Caudill as county director could not sit with the committee while the position of county director was being considered. (Caudill was hired originally last April to develop a program of anti-poverty projects for Letcher County. The grant under which he was employed ran out in December, and the job technically became vacant then.)

The other four members of the personnel committee then proceeded to undertake a nationwide search for talented persons to lead the Letcher County program. Nearing the end of its deliberations, the personnel committee met last Saturday with the executive committee of the county poverty group, reviewed its findings and deliberations and recommended that Caudill not be re-employed as director. (The personnel committee had already informed Caudill of its recommendation.) The executive committee unanimously endorsed the personnel committee's actions.

Findings and recommendations of the two committees then were presented to the full board of directors of the county Economic Opportunity Committee Monday night. The meeting was closed to the public for the committee report and the subsequent deliberations and voting.

The outcome, however, was a 13 to 9 rejection of the personnel committee's findings, and the re-employment of Caudill.

Members of the personnel committee, except Caudill, immediately submitted their resignations, explaining that they felt no useful purpose would be served by their selection of other qualified people to be rejected by the county committee.

Upon learning of the chain of events, Washington OEO officials requested Assistant Kentucky Economic Opportunity Director Joe Smith to come to Letcher County from Frankfort to discuss the situation. Caudill, meanwhile, left Letcher County for a few days to attend the state high school basketball tournament in Louisville.

Reports were that Smith would attempt to persuade Letcher County to merge forces with Perry, Leslie and Knott counties in a proposed regional poverty program, with a central staff to serve all four counties. Washington OEO officials have been pressing for area and regional centralized poverty programs, both as an economy and as a means of avoiding local political dominance of the program and its employment practices. The local committee had held out against the consolidation, assuring Washington that it could and would employ a strong professional staff and operate an effective program that would be of more benefit to the county than a regional program based in another county.

Former Letcher County Extension Agent James K. Kendrick had been the personnel committee's selection to replace Caudill. Kendrick currently is director of the poverty program in Scott County, Virginia, and assists in various phases of the program in several other Virginia counties.

After the Letcher County committee rejected Kendrick, Gish said:

"Mr. Kendrick directs what is generally regarded as the most successful poverty program in the entire state of Virginia, and I deeply regret that Letcher County has been denied the benefit of his skills and his deep interest in this business of helping the people of the mountains to find some answers to their problems. Mr. Kendrick was willing to come to Letcher County at a sacrifice in salary simply because he and his wife knew and loved the county and wanted to return here to live and work with us."

"We in Letcher County had in our hands the chance to build the most meaningful poverty program in the Appalachian area, and we have thrown it away."

Sydor, in a letter explaining his resignation, said:

"Our people do not seem ready to hire and fire on the basis of impersonal, professional standards. . . . We would prefer a native son, even though he might not be too well qualified for the job. . . . Professional qualifications don't really matter, nearly so much as our clan feelings. Let us frankly admit that the noble experiment is a failure. . . .

Someday we may be ready to be hard-headed, objective and professional in these matters, but not now. . . ."

Campbell said:

"In view of the fact that a motion was made by Johnny Fulton to re-employ Ike Caudill before the personnel committee was permitted to make its report, it became obvious that our recommendations were meaningless. Personally, I think the personnel committee members took their work seriously in a non-serious situation—a situation that is serious to the poor people of Letcher County but apparently is not to the politically powerful faction of the county board."

Here is the text of Sydor's letter, written to Jack Caccio, OEO official in charge of Kentucky and West Virginia:

"Enclosed is a copy of my letter of resignation sent to the Council of the Southern Mountains. The background for this letter is as follows:

"The Letcher County Professional Personnel Selection Committee was informed by OEO in Washington that its job was to select the best qualified person for each job in the county's poverty-war program—including the position of director. The committee worked hard and faithfully with the following results:

"1. It was our unanimous feeling that the incumbent director is simply not qualified for so important and demanding a task. The recommendation that he be replaced was conveyed to the executive committee of the county EOC, and they agreed unanimously.

"2. After careful screening we arrived at the name of a man with unusually high qualifications, one who we had every reason to believe, on the basis of the superior job he is presently performing, would give the county's program energetic and able leadership. Again, the executive committee agreed with our choice, unanimously.

"3. At its meeting tonight, the county Economic Opportunity Committee declined to accept the nomination as submitted, choosing instead to continue in office the present director. After this action was taken, I announced my resignation from the Professional Personnel Selection Committee, as did the other members present—Mr. Varon Campbell and Mr. Tom Gish. In the course of a telephone conversation with the fourth member of our committee, Dr. Daniel Fox of Berea, he stated that he agreed with the position of the other members of our committee.

"It would seem that two courses of action are now open. First, acting under the present terms of the contract with Letcher County EOC Inc., the machinery could once again be put to work: a new committee could be appointed and their work could begin all over again. However, I see no point in this course. For one thing, many more months will be taken up—and our county needs this staff to be hired and begin functioning now."

"But there is another reason why I would not suggest that this procedure be followed again. Basically, our people do not seem to be ready to hire and fire on the basis of impersonal, professional standards. We are too used to the personal ways of relating to each other. We would prefer a native son, even though he might not be well qualified for the job. At least he is someone we know; for we operate through family ties and personal relationships--who

Mrs. Kiser elected

Mrs. Mabel Kiser of Millstone was elected chairman of the Millstone Community Action Council this week at the board's second meeting.

The board consists of the elected councilmen from the communities of Sergent, Thornton, Millstone and Kona.

Other officers chosen were Mrs. Gladys Wright of Thornton, vice chairman, and Mrs. Norma Cole of Sergent, secretary-treasurer.

The board also decided to meet regularly every third Friday of each month and named a hiring committee consisting of Cecil Webb, Sergent; Vernon Caudill, Thornton; Sherd Martin, Millstone, and Kelly Ballou, Kona.

Ed Safford of the Council of the Southern Mountains informed the group the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington appears to be "acting favorably" on the $43,500 proposal the Letcher County Economic Opportunity Committee has submitted on behalf of the Millstone council. Safford said he conferred with OEO officials about the project on Monday.

The project would set up a sewing center to repair and renovate clothing sent to Letcher County for charitable distribution and would provide a means for distributing the clothing to persons in need throughout the county. It also would provide sewing facilities for women of the community who wanted to use them and would provide some new clothing to be made for charitable distribution.

Whitesburg CAP group meets Monday

The Whitesburg Community Action Council will meet at 7 p. m. Monday, March 21, in the conference room of the public library at the courthouse.

Chairman Robert Gatten said the purpose of the meeting is to review the council's past action and make plans for the immediate future.

The meeting is open to the public and all interested persons are welcome to attend, Gatten said.

EDDIE HOWARD, manager

Blackey'GOARD' OR 'GOURD'? THERE ONCE WAS A POST OFFICE BY ONE OF THOSE NAMES

By LARRY CAUDILL

If anyone is interested, we'll go into the gourd question - of Gourd, Ky., which once was a post office around here. I recall once seeing somewhere a letter that bore such a postmark.

But I am almost sure the stamp mark was spelled Goard.

Question was raised by N. Baxter Jenkins in a letter from the far west - Mercer Island at Seattle, state of Washington. Baxter's father was Steve Jenkins, who once figured prominently in the affairs of the sixth class City of Blackey, which was created by Circuit Court order on Jan. 27, 1915.

The city hustled brightly in the first years of the coal boom. After a flood (1927) and two disastrous fires around the early '30's the town ran into difficulties, and failed to elect city officials.

The charter lapsed but remained in effect, as it does to this day. Few people understand this, and speak of re-incorporating. This is not necessary. All that is needed is for five persons to file entries as trustees for election in the coming November election - and the City of Blackey would be back in business.

Any candidates with a buck for entry fee?

Baxter's mother, now Mrs. John D. W. Collins, is known affectionately as Aunt Lida. She served in various capacities for the City of Blackey.

Baxter's letter says:

"Speaking of defunct post offices, some 30-odd years ago I ran across some old letters addressed to Gourd, Ky. Do you or any of your intrepid readers recall the period this one was in existence and where it was located?

"I am of the opinion it was in the vicinity of the latter-day post office of Bluefield, Ky., which also is absent from the modern-day scene.

"The exact location doubtless was in the hewed log home of one of our pioneer settlers or one of his offspring. Its origin was probably earlier than the Grouse post office described by Arthur Dixon in his letter to you a few weeks back."

Another vague impression is that the Gourd post office was around the mouth of Orchard Branch, below the mouth of Elk Creek, and that Uncle R. B. Caudill had something to do with it.

Vaxter and I will welcome any further seeds about the Gourd (Ky.).

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Collins and three children of Louisville visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Collins, on Dan'l Branch of Rockhouse Creek during the strike at Appliance Park, where Marvin works.

Speaking of "pappy" Collins, octogenarian retired lawyer, veteran of the Spanish-American War, and one-time state enforcement of the Noble Experiment of prohibition - John D. W. Collins Pappy loves to relate old tales, the legal classics of fact, fiction and legend. He recalls one about the late Judge A. M. J. Cochran.

Sitting at Jack son once, there came before Judge Cochran an arthritic Kentucky mountain moonshiner.

"I'm sorry for you," said the court. "The fine is $100."

"That's all right, Judge," said the defendant. "I've got it right here in my hind pocket."

Soon the character was back in court. This time Judge Cochran doubled the fine.

"That's all right, Judge," said the defendant. "I've got it right here in my hind pocket." And he rummaged in a worn pocket-book and hauled out two $100 bills.

On his third appearance, Judge

Cochran said, "I'm going to break you of making whisky - $500 - -"

"That's all right, Judge," said the defendant. "I've got it right and he reached for the hind pocket.

"While you're rummaging in that hind pocket, see if you can come up with a 5-year term in the pen."

It isn't long to wait - only 19 years - to see Halley's Comet. It is due to appear again in the night sky in 1985, according to astronomers.

Many more of you than I remember the appearance of Halley's

Comet the last time. My own mother, who is going on 85, must have been thinking behind the times the other day when I casually mentioned something I remembered because it was associated with the year of Halley's Comet.

"Why, you never saw Halley's Comet?"

But I did - from an attic window in the old home of Grandpa Arch Connell on Leatherwood Creek in Perry County. It was 1910. I would have been 9 years old.

On clear nights Halley's Comet was visible as a half of a blaze.

Arts available

Frankfort - The Kentucky Arts Commission is now taking applications for grants in aid from groups and organizations interested in making the visual and performing arts available to Kentuckians in areas where exhibits and performances are not readily available.

Mrs. John W. Oswald, chairman of the Commission, said the deadline for filing applications is Friday, April 8.

"Applications should be submitted to the commission the earliest possible date," said Mrs. Oswald, "because Kentucky is required to file a state plan with the federal government by May 1, listing all projects under consideration."

Applications are available from the Kentucky Arts Commission, Room 304, Capitol Annex Building, in Frankfort.

The Commission's executive committee has voted to set aside $50,000 in state funds for arts projects in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Another $50,000 will come from the National Endowment for the Arts' matching funds program, providing the Kentucky plan is approved.

Mrs. Oswald said "Bringing the arts to all the people and communities of the Commonwealth is our primary objective. Excellence of exhibits and performances will be stressed."

She said the commission has no immediate plans to underwrite performances or exhibitions in areas where they are readily available on a continuing basis. She emphasized that Commission funds will not be used to make up recurring deficits for arts organizations or institutions.

If the first part of your vehicle identification number is here, you might be a winner.

Here's how it works. Look at the first symbols (the prefix) on your vehicle identification slip. Then look at the symbols listed above. If you find yours on the list, you've taken the first step toward being a winner. Now go see your Buick dealer. He has a list of 72 winners posted in his showroom. If you see your number, write it down on a piece of paper on the poster—the symbols plus the rest of the numbers—$2332 cash is yours. (If your prefix isn't listed in this ad, don't give up. Your numbers may have been posted during the past few weeks. And every week there are 72 new winners posted on the poster. So watch for next week's list of new symbols in this newspaper.) No slogan to invent, no puzzles to solve. In fact, you don't even have to own a Buick to have a winning number. While you're in the showroom, get a good look at the Buick Special. The $2332 cash is yours to keep, plus $1000 cash for the car. Add $1000 to its price. (Manufacturer's suggested retail price for Special V-8, 2-door sedan. Price includes Federal Excise Tax and suggested dealer delivery and handling charges.)

Contest Rules. Residents of Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska, if you prefer, send in a postcard to R. P. Polk and Co., P.O. Box 48231, Detroit, Michigan 48231 and receive the weekly list of winners by mail for comparison with your own vehicle identification number. An official entry form will be included. Sweepstakes open to U.S. residents living in the continental U.S. (Not valid in Florida or states where prohibited by law.)

Buick's $1,000,000 Sweepstakes.

There's an authorized Buick dealer near you. See his Double-Checked used cars, too.

she lost in the fire, but, when her son finishes what he has started on her house, she will have a beautiful new house to start all over with. Claude has won the love and respect of everyone here by being so concerned over his parents' welfare.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell P. Short were visiting in Esseville, Va., Sunday with Mr. Short's brother, Denver, and his wife. Denver has not been well for quite a while.

We were very sorry to hear that Judge Gooch is back in the hospital and also that he had lost one of his brothers recently.

I have had three most interesting telephone conversations this week with three old friends whom I have not seen for some time. Mrs. Lee Banks of Premium called me and I was so glad to talk to her. She was a real friend to us while we were at Mountain Haven Children's Home. Although blind, Mrs. Banks was able to do so many things and one time she baked us a delicious stack cake and brought it to us. I loved her very much. Then Saturday night Mrs. Atha Miles, also of Premium, called me. Mrs. Miles has been sick a lot and I was glad to find she is feeling better. She stayed with me a lot and helped me with the work at the home. Through these women I was able to hear of our neighbors down there, and I want to visit them before long.

Today I talked with Mrs. Darrell Short of Neon. And I really enjoyed that. Call again, please.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harlow of Fleming are the parents of a baby girl. The baby weighed seven pounds and six ounces and has been named Caroline. The Harlows have three other girls, Cherry, Kim and Shawn. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ed McCaffrey of Fleming.

Mr. and Mrs. Mary E. Wright have been back to Louisville for a checkup at the Jewish Hospital. She did not have to stay and is quite a bit better. Her son, Howard Foster, and his wife and son brought her home and spent several days with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Owens of Buchanan County were here over the weekend visiting relatives in Fleming and Hennell. Sunday the Owenses, along with my husband and me, Mrs. Gail Revis and children of Jenkins, Mrs. Mary Wright and Alfred Adams, attended the McRoberts Regular Baptist Church. Afterward Mr. and Mrs. Owens and Mrs. Wright had dinner with Mrs. Carrie Hall of McRoberts, a sister of Mr. Owens.

Congratulations to Mrs. Lois Tackett, who has been hired by child welfare to serve as top aide

In the day care program which is scheduled to open soon, Lois Hill and Bobby Wilder were hired as her aides, and Mrs. Pauline Branch was hired as cook. They will go to Jenny Wiley State Park March 27 for a week's training.

Mrs. Venyard Craft of Gromona has returned to her home after spending two weeks at the Paintsville Clinic, where she was under medical treatment. Mrs. Craft came home on her wedding anniversary, and her daughter, Mrs. Charles Bentley of Daytona Beach, Fla., called to wish her parents a happy day.

Mrs. B. F. Gish of Daytona Beach, Fla., formerly of Haymond, has returned to her home in Daytona Beach after spending two weeks in the hospital for treatment of a heart condition. She still is not able to be out of bed.

A group of Haymond young people is spending several days in Louisville under sponsorship of the Presbyterian Church. Among things planned for them is a trip to various factories and industries, where they will meet workmen and employers and learn what is needed to obtain and hold jobs.

with a sweeping curving widening tail fading into an orange glow. It was a pretty thing.

But it was a scary time for the grown-ups. They knew nothing about Halley's Comet and there was no radio, television, or even newspapers, to inform them.

It was a scary time. Many thought it meant the world was coming to an end. People rather suddenly were very religious - and I still have little regard for religion based on fear. To my brother Fred and me it was a lark.

A young Negro, some years older than me, lived on grandpa's farm. Monroe Adams, son of Aunt Jenny, worked on the farm and slept in a snug little room in the attic on a shock bed.

Monroe, now an octogenarian patriarch on Breeding's Creek in Knott County, was good to play with us younger boys.

I can remember riding astraddle his neck, my fingers tangled tightly in his hair.

On "Comet nights" the grown-ups shooed us youngsters to bed while they held preaching and prayer services in dread of the coming holocaust.

We slipped out of bed, sneaked up the stairs and lay quietly with Monroe and whispered about the celestial phenomenon.

It was many years before I learned the story of Halley's Comet as a student at Centre College, 1918-22.

Miss Billy Adams, daughter of Jailer Ben A., returned from a lengthy visit with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Shepherd, in Dayton, O.

MANY BILLS BREAK THROUGH LOGJAM AS LEGISLATURE NEARS ADJOURNMENT DATE

Frankfort - The teachers' pay-raise and natural resources bills - hailed by Gov. Edward T. Breathitt as ultra-important - were among those which broke through the legislative logjam and became law as the 1966 General Assembly labored toward final adjournment March 18.

A number of other measures were nearing final action - such as the bill to require annual mechanical inspection of automobiles; the one to reapportion the state's seven congressional districts as equal as possible in population; and one aimed at giving Kentucky a new constitution.

In signing the teachers' pay bill, Breathitt called it the most important school law passed in the last 12 years, since establishing the minimum foundation program.

Besides providing pay raises ranging from $450 to $1,100 for teachers over the next two years, depending on education and experience, the bill authorizes local school districts to use one of three new taxes to raise money for other school needs, such as buildings.

"The natural resources bills I am signing into law," the governor said, "along with the new statutes regulating strip mining, represent the most significant advancements ever achieved on behalf of water, air and mineral resources in Kentucky - and perhaps in any other state."

Action was being awaited in the Senate on the auto-inspection bill which passed the House March 1. Action by the House was being awaited on the constitution revision measure which passed the Senate Feb. 28 by a vote of 32 to 0. The redistricting bill was in the House after passing the Senate by a full-membership vote of 38 to 0.

Received in the Senate was a bill, passed in the House by a vote of 50 to 40, which would repeal the 10-cent-a-gallon whisky production tax at the rate of two cents a year over a period of five years.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to create a commission to plan and construct an office building in Frankfort for the exclusive use of the legislature. The commission would consist of two senators appointed by the senate president, two representatives named by the speaker of the house, and three members appointed by the governor.

A bill to update Kentucky's 1910 garnishment law was passed by the House and sent to the Senate. It would exempt from garnishment 75 per cent of wages and up to $1,500 of personal property, including a car used in getting to work. The present law exempts $16.87 a week and mentions "two work beasts" but not an automobile.

The Senate passed and sent to the House the bill which would increase the salaries of the governor, other elected officials and 30 appointed commissioners and department heads, if the governor saw fit to raise the latter. The salary of the next governor - after Breathitt - would be increased from $18,000 to $30,000 a year. Neither would the raises affect any other elected official during his present term.

The Senate and House both gave final passage to a number of bills and sent them to the governor. He may approve or veto a bill or let it become a law without his signature.

The Senate passed and sent to the Governor House Bill 164, which would require institutions having the care of infants aged 28 days or less to administer the "PKU" test which detects the potential of mental retardation in a child.

Among other bills passed and sent to the governor, and their sponsors, were:

HB 250 - Rep. Mitchel B. Denham, D-Maysville - to raise employee contributions to the county employees retirement system, with a corresponding increase in benefits; and HB 251, Reps. Denham and John M. Smothers, D-Springfield, to do the same for state employees.

House Resolution 96 - Reps. Neil Guy McNamara, D-Mt. Sterling, J.Y. Brown, D-Lexington, and James M. Caldwell, R-Louisville - to permit the Department of Child Welfare to participate with the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs in construction and operation of a rehabilitation center for delinquent girls.

HB 501 - Reps. Julian M. Carroll, D-West Paducah; Fred Morgan, D-Paducah, and Shelby McCallum, D-Benton - to permit Paducah Junior College to negotiate with the University of Kentucky for inclusion in UK's community college system.

HB 238 - Reps. James E. Bruce, D-Hopkinsville, McNamara and others to empower the State Fair Board to regulate speed limits on the State Fairgrounds.

HB 248 - Rep. Denham - providing state employees with re-employment rights after up to six years in the armed forces.

By MABEL KISER

Well, spring is here. Almost everyone has potatoes planted. Peas are up, mustard greens are beginning to show, lettuce and onions will soon find their way to the table. Crocuses and Easter flowers are in bloom, and forsythia is out in a burst of glory. It is good to know that as long as "the earth remaineth seed time and harvest will not perish from the earth." And now you know that with the exception of about three weeks I was right about a mild winter.

professional qualifications don't really matter, nearly so much as our clan feelings.

Therefore, I propose an alternative course of action. It should be possible, with the concurrence of the county committee, to re-write the contract so that the county committee can choose its own Personnel Selection Committee. Let us frankly admit that the noble experiment was a failure, that our people are not yet ready to think in terms of professional standards and qualifications, and let us get on with the job through the choice made in our usual ways of making them.

"Some day we may be ready to be hard-headed, objective and professional in these matters, but not now. And a beginning must be made where we are now."

Columbus Sexton, chairman of the county committee, said EOC officials in Washington do not appear to be willing to permit the county committee to name its own personnel selection committee. However, they have not indicated what further action they will take. Presumably Smith will take back recommendations from his stay here. He will be in Eastern Kentucky until Tuesday, when the Upper
